

Driving on Namibian roads:

As exciting the self-drive tour might be, if you are not used to our streets/roads they can be very dangerous.

- Most of the accidents that happen on Namibian roads are caused by driving too fast. The speed limit on gravel roads of 80km/h should never be exceeded.
- Please act according to the road signs, especially those that mark sharp turns, where the speed should be reduced drastically.
- On dusty roads the lights of the vehicle should be switched on so that oncoming traffic can see you.
- If a vehicle should come towards you, please drive as far to the left as possible and slow down.
- Tyre pressure is very important and should be checked regularly.
- unless unavoidable, you should not drive after sunset. Please watch out for animals crossing the road.
- The gravel roads are extremely slippery after rain. Never drive through flowing rivers.
- Watch out for places where water has damaged surface of the road.
- The vehicle should always be driven with both hands on the steering wheel.
